

Vesper Propers, November 9, 2014
Twenty-second Sunday after Pentecost

Our venerable mother Matrona. From Perga in Pamphylia, she fled a horrible marriage by dressing in men's clothing and, under the name of Babylas, lived in a monastery in Constantinople. She went from monastery to monastery to evade her husband. She lived the monastic life for seventy-five years and fell asleep in the Lord. (492)

③

As a friend of wis - dom, you subdued the de-sires of your flesh though the labors of asceticism, O Ma - tro - na, and you fol - lowed Christ.
You dwelt a-mong pi - ous her - mits to quench the burning flames of the passions under the rain of your tears, and to enkindle your ar-dent love for the Cre - a - - - - tor.

Cantor: Praise the Lord, all you nations,
(on 2) acclaim him all you peoples!

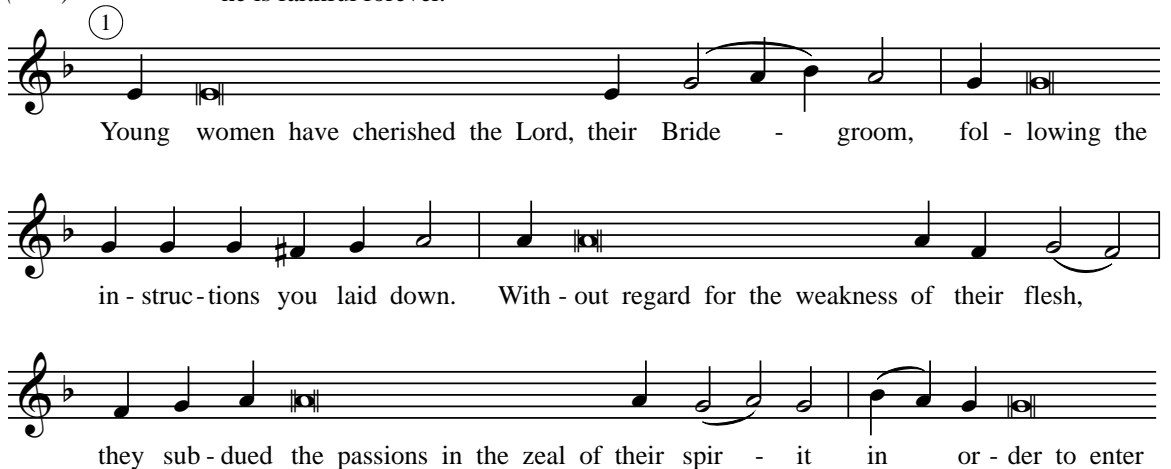

②

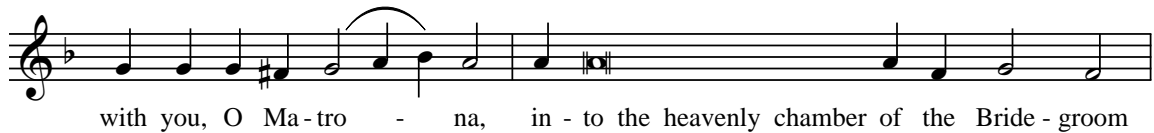

You founded a sanctuary for med-i - ta - tion for the sal - va - tion of man - y, since you were a temple of the Spir - it, thanks to the pu - ri - ty of your soul.
And toward the hard - ships and works of asceticism, you led a whole ar - my, - a saved peo - ple, whom you pre - sent - ed to the Lord as an of - fer - ing; with them, we glo - ri - fy you in faith.

Cantor: Strong is the love of the Lord for us;
(on 1) he is faithful forever.

Young women have cherished the Lord, their Bride - groom, fol - lowing the in - struc - tions you laid down. With - out regard for the weakness of their flesh, they sub - dued the passions in the zeal of their spir - it in or - der to enter Cantor: (Tone 5) Glory... Now and ever...
