When the violent gust of wind bearing life descended from heaven, the most Holy Spirit of God, in the form of tongues of fire, breathed on the fishermen with great force, and they began to reach the marvels of God: Sing to the Lord, all you works of the Lord, and exalt him forever.

Let us bless the Father, Son, and Ho - ly Spir - it, Lord.

Let us approach the inviolate mountain without fear of the terrible fire; come, let us climb the mountain of Zion, the city of the living God. In joy, let us now unite ourselves with the choir of the disciples, the bearers of the Spirit: Sing to the Lord, all you works of the Lord, and exalt him forever.

Now and ev - er and for ev - er. A - men.

On Sinai, the bush that burned without being consumed revealed God to Moses as he spoke to the one of unsure speech; and in the furnace, the three youths, invincible in their zeal for God, began to sing a hymn of praise: Sing to the Lord, all you his works, and exalt him forever.
